Future Industries Zone

Demonstrating Application Scenarios to Enhance the Future Industries Ecosystem

Date: 13-16 Oct 2026
Venue: Grand Hall, 3/F of the HKCEC

Background and Introduction

The Hong Kong Electronic Industries Association (HKEIA) recently celebrated its 45th anniversary. As the founder and representative agency of the Hong Kong Autumn Electronics Fair, it has partnered with the Hong Kong Trade Development Council (HKTDC) to co-organize this exhibition for 45 years. Beyond driving Hong Kong's economy, it consistently acts as Hong Kong's "super-connector" and "super value-adder," helping to promote innovation and technology internationally. HKEIA has been a long-term partner of CTA, the founder and owner of the world’s most renowned and largest consumer technology event, the Consumer Electronics Show (CES). In 2024, HKEIA joined forces with HKTDC and the Hong Kong Science and Technology Parks Corporation (HKSTP) to organize tech enterprises and recent startups to exhibit at Eureka Park within CES and participate in various activities. This aims to provide members and the industry with the latest technological insights and foster connections between enterprises and overseas buyers.

To drive the development of the industrial ecosystem, HKEIA will collaborate with HKTDC this year to establish a brand-new themed exhibition area called the "Future Industries Zone" within the Hong Kong Electronics Fair (Autumn Editon). This initiative not only creates a fresh, unique, and highly promising exhibition for Hong Kong's trade show industry, but also aims to offer practical application scenarios for startups and enterprises to precisely grow their business. This includes introducing emerging industries such as new materials, energy storage, and artificial intelligence. This time, HKEIA is collaborating with CTA to host the "CES Unveiled Hong Kong" featured event inside the "Future Industries Zone". Leveraging the appeal of this internationally renowned brand will not only attract multiple leading enterprises to exhibit, but will also encourage companies to exchange knowledge on expanding overseas. This injects new vitality into the exhibition, shaping it into a unique highlight for trade shows in Hong Kong.

The "Future Industries Zone" serves as a core breakthrough strategy. This concept aims to go beyond traditional electronic products and break ground in future industrial fields such as AI, new materials (metals, plastics), energy storage technology, and fintech. Within these application scenarios, corporations can display future technologies, while startups can deliver effective, tailored solutions based on the specific needs of different enterprises. This innovative theme is highly attractive to many startups and even international corporations that already possess advanced technologies and are actively seeking an international platform for exhibition and promotion.
